Many of the Claims Declared to Be Fraudulent -They Had to Be Paid, Though Methods of Professional Damage suit Sharps -- Litigation Stirred Up.

Bidden in the maze of figures which made up the last annual report of the Brook-Rapid Transit Company was an item ch tells an amazing story of the muleting that big corporation in one short year the professional damage suit sharps their allies, the shyster lawyers and lance chasers. Doubtless the eyes who noticed the report when it was blished reached the item showing that settlement of damage suits and judgments against the company the enormous sum of $990,000 was paid out in one year. a staggering statement in view of the really few serious accidents on the great system of surface and elevated railhads operated by this company, and yet t does not represent the total loss to the company by litigation of this character aimost $300,000. The expenses of the n department of the road, to which all damage suits are referred, bring the total up to about $1,250,000. This claim department has to keep a large staff of who are experts in the collection of vidence and detective work to handle a great many hundred greedy witnesses and to pay the fees of the small army of lawyers making up the legal department of the system, all of which expenses with other items too numerous to mention make up this tremendous total.

The popular belief that the way of a big corporation is strewn with flowers and that the holders of its stock have but to sit back n their leather upholstered chairs, puff huge black eigars and draw their dividends, will receive a rude shock from this information about a single expense of this company in twelve short months. Possilely some folks will see the matter from another standpoint when they hear about the rectheds employed by some of the ofessional damage suit people against his big corporation. No allegation is made that a great many suits brought against the company for damages are not legitimate, but these are declared to be a very small percentage of the whole. It is even said that 90 per cent, of the suits are drummed up by lawyers who are clever at this one game Against these men and their methods a corporation like the Brock-lyn Rapid Transit Company is absolutely lyn Rapid Transit Company is absolutely heipless. The figures mentioned in the last annual report show better than anything else the success with which this work has met. The Rapid Transit people themselves do not figure that more than $100,000 of this amount was paid in absolutely legitimate claims. Of the enormous balance, they figure they have simply been robbed. It must not be supposed that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company is the only corporation that has suffered from this evil in the last few years. All street railroads have this thing to contend with and have had for years, but it is doubtful if any other corporation has ever been hit so ther corporation has ever been hit so lard as the Brocklyn company was last year. This is because in Brocklyn all the railroads, with but one exception, are in the hands of one company, and a number of lawyers have selected this corporation as the medium through, which they will s have selected this corporation medium through which they will living. have made a careful study of the f suing the company and they have sid the details of this kind of hitses and the medium to appear for him as counsel. It is no unusual sight to see two or three of the details of this kind of hitses ambulance chasers running after a numbulance chasers running after a numbulance chasers. They have made a careful study of the work of suing the company and they have mastered the details of this kind of litigation. It has even been charged that some of them have a regular following of men and women who are ready to swear to any thing. And over in Brooklyn juries have been giving large verifiets to the plaintiffs in such cases. There is a wide-spread belief in Brooklyn that the coffers of these ambulance chasers running after an ambulance as fast as their legs will carry them, and fighting over the injured man when they get to him.

What these lawyers lose through the channels of Police Headquarters and the hospitals they generally find in the newspapers. The slightest mention in a newspaper that a man has been hurt or even paper that a man has been hurt or even paper. plaintiffs in such cases. There is a wide-spread belief in Brooklyn that the coffers of the Rapid Transit Company are inexhaustile, and this coupled with a prejudice entertained by some people against the company, makes it easier to get a verdict. Occasionally this zeal for a plaintiff has resulted in verdicts for amounts so ridicularly high that the higher courts have sof them aside, but as a rule the juries the disputed.

The slightest mention in a newspaper that a man has been hurt or even inconvenienced by some incident that can be laid at the door of the railroad company will bring a horde of these lawyers and their persistency they are worse than a lot of insurance adjusters. They hositate at nothing to get at a man, and there isn't any concession that they will not make to get permission to bring an action against the disputed. entertained by some people against the company, makes it easier to get a verdict. Occasionally this zeal for a plaintiff has resulted in verdicts for amounts so ridicuset them aside, but as a rule the juries keep within a sum which they know will not be disputed.

An examination of several hundred actions brought for damages against the Rocklyn Rapid Transit Company last year shows that very few of hem were for injuries of any serious or lasting nature. Most of the plaintiffs were persons who would no more have thought of seeking reparation for the slight inconvenience they suffered from being shaken up in the cars, or for insignificant cuts or bruises, the result of slight collisions or of cars leaving the tracks while going at a high rite of speed, than they would have thought of insignificant cuts or bruises, the result of slight collisions or of cars leaving the tracks while going at a high rite of speed, than they would have thought of innuing off the Brooklyn Bridge, had not the idea been suggested by some lawver or his representative. Few people in any valk of life will refuse an opportunity to make of her the value of the the hospital people, and finally, seeing there was no chance of getting the case direct, they began to bother the young man's mother. In less than a week she counted exactly 122 persons who had been to see her, each one urging her te put her son's case in his hands.

Around the home of a man who had been to see her, each one urging her te put her son's case in his hands.

Around the home of a man who had been have found a fertile field for the exercise of their talents in Brooklyn. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company operates some to miles of street railroad in that borough, leeps thousands of cars going at the same time, and carries something like 200,000,000 people annually. ABRAHAM AND STRAUS

Real Laces, at Prices Never Paralleled,

Show Again the Pre-eminence of This Store.

EARLY a year ago the Lace dealing world was stirred by a sale of real Laces the like of which had never been imagined. The broad merchandising power of this store had been used to foster certain trade conditions; its immense distributing power was the basis for purchases the magnitude of which would have staggered any ordinary enterprise and the result was a magnificent collection of beautiful real Laces for less than the usual cost of imitation Laces.

We Have Beaten That Record in This Real Lace Sale, and Abraham and Straus' Supremacy in Laces Is Unquestioned.

This is a great occasion in the broad meaning of the word. The rare Laces of the sort cherished as heirlooms, beautiful needlework that took months of painstaking, skiliful labor and quantities which are immense are here at bargain prices. Some of the most wanted Laces are scarce, too. In many cases—the Irish Crochet and the Duchess Laces are instances—it will be difficult to find such Laces at any prices what ever. It is a show worth seeing as well as a sale. It brings you the dress garnitures most in demand for prices less than their cost to make. Read the price list, and
